

Using the information gathered in the first phase of the engagement process as one of our inputs, the Crescent Road Master Plan team is moving forward with the next stages for the project.

Next steps for Master Plan

Various design ideas and concepts are currently being developed but no final options have been determined yet. Our consultant is working to develop preliminary designs that incorporate the feedback we received in the first phase of engagement. Those designs will then be circulated internally for technical and feasibility review. From there, these different design ideas will be shared as part of phase two of engagement.

Design option development underway

Designs are being developed for five main areas along Crescent Road These areas have been identified based on the different needs or attributes of the landscape and community interactions with the space.

In phase two, we will work with the community to review the proposed design options and refine them based on the needs and understanding of the community. We expect to be ready for phase two of engagement in Spring 2022.

We are aiming to confirm the dates and opportunities for engagement in the coming weeks, and you will be notified of this engagement once those dates are finalized.
